French Committee Surmounts Greatest Crisis

Giraud, de Gaulle To Keep Separate Armed Forces

ALGIER, June 22.—(AP)—Announcing the greatest crisis in its short history, the French Committee of National Liberation agreed today for General Henri Giraud and Charles de Gaulle to remain in command of their respective armed forces while appointing a sub-committee which ultimately might unify all French forces.

A subcommittee of eight members, including de Gaulle and Giraud, is to be charged with the responsibility of eventually merging the two forces, it was said. The plan answered the stipulation disclosed to have been made by Britain and the United States that Gen. Giraud remain as the supreme authority over the French military establishment in North Africa, a vital base for Allied operations.

The committee, which met nearly three hours to reach its decision this afternoon, now is expected to divert its attention to less controversial issues.

ALLIED STAND

Informed sources said the British and U.S. governments had informed Gen. Charles de Gaulle and Gen. Giraud that Giraud must retain full command of the French armed forces at least as long as French Africa remained a base of United Nations military operations.

26 Are Killed

In Bloody Race Riots in Detroit

By ANTHONY G. DE LORENZO
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
Copyright, 1943, by British United Press
DETROIT, June 22.—Motorized army troops restored law and order in Detroit today after violent race riots, but production slumped in war plants because of an excessive rate of absenteeism among Negro workers.

Federal army detachments in battle uniforms bivouacked along a two-mile stretch of Woodward Avenue, the city's main thoroughfare, and mobile units of light tanks, jeeps and armored cars rolled through narrow streets in the Negro section with guns loaded and orders to "use them if necessary."

The troops moved into the city shortly before midnight under orders to halt rioting Negro and white mobsters whose 24-hour reign of terror left 26 persons dead, 150 injured and thousands of dollars of property damage. Tension seemed to vanish with arrival of the soldiers.

REPORTS BETTER

Gov. Harry F. Kelly said reports from state and city police and federal authorities were "very good."

Work Is Commenced on Project to Erect 250 Homes in Northern Section of City

Here are scenes of the ceremony of the turning of the first sod in the $1,250,000 housing project under which 250 homes will be built for rental to war workers. At top left is seen the huge motor dig shovel unloading the first scoopful of earth as Mayor John W. Fry operated the levers of the machine in the official opening. Immediately prior to the operating of the machine Mayor Fry removed a spadeful of earth, thus symbolizing the modern and ancient in construction. In the centre top Mayor Fry is seen at the controls of the motor digger, and at top right Hon. Ernest Manning, premier of the province of Alberta, is seen operating the machine's levers. At bottom left Mayor Fry has just turned the first sod. Standing in the background are City Commissioner R. J. Gibb, Ald. F. J. Mitchell, and immediately behind Mayor Fry is Ald. Sidney Parsons. Standing next is Ald. J. M. Douglas. Lower right is John Bennett, Vancouver, presenting a desk set to Mayor Fry to commemorate the occasion. Mr. Bennett is an executive of the construction firm of Bennett and White Co., which firm is building the houses. Also seen in this picture are John Patterson, city land department superintendent, who is next to Mayor Fry and Peter Rule of the firm of Rule, Wynn and Rule, architects for the project. Aircrew to Get Leave at Home After One Year

OTTAWA, June 22.—(CP)—Aircrew personnel will get leave in Canada after completing one tour of operations and a tour of operational training instructional duty in the United Kingdom, Air Minister Power announced yesterday.

He said the arrangement followed negotiations with British authorities and applied to the R.C.A.F. only. Arrangements for leave for the hands in the R.A.F. were in the hands of the R.A.F. ministry.

"SEVERAL SORTIES"

A tour of operations consists of a certain number of sorties over enemy territory for bomber crews, a certain number of hours in the cockpit for fighter and command personnel.

After coming through such a tour, aircrew are sent to operational training schools for further instruction in flying and in the fighting formations.

Normally it takes about six months to complete a tour of operations and the operational training tour runs six to eight months.

Acclaimed by People King Makes Unprecedented Visit to Battered Malta

By PAUL KERN LEE
VALETTA, June 20.—(Delayed)—(AP)—Malta, whose name has become synonymous for indomitable resistance against apparently overwhelming odds, joyfully received King George VI and Queen Elizabeth on their first wartime visit from the King.

He came from North Africa aboard the cruiser Aurora with an escort of four destroyers—the Lookout, Jersey, Nubian, and Exmouth—a royal which until recently was a vastly hazardous one.

The fact that the King made the trip with such a small escort was evidence of British control of the Mediterranean.

The trip followed the King's journey to North Africa by plane to visit British and American troops.

Accompanying the sovereign were Admiral of the Fleet Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham and Air Marshal Sir Arthur William Tedder, and in the starboard motor launch, Harold MacMillan, resident minister for British North Africa.

The King drove through flag-strewn streets where children tossed flowers. On his tour of the city he strode through unroofed buildings, visited the dockyards which continued their functions through the worst air raids.

He inspected the naval, army and air stations and the palace which he visited in the afternoon. George crossed to the people collectively.

The method of the King's coming spoke volumes to the Maltese and to the Axis as well.

Until recently the journey to Malta was an extremely hazardous undertaking and many months the voyage by sea was virtually impossible.

The Axis, apparently trying to fish for information on his Majesty's whereabouts, broadcast most of last week, alleged reports from L. Linea, Spain, that he had arrived in Sicily.

Appropriate Vessel
The Aurora was an appropriate vessel for the voyage as in the dark of night it was escorted by the Axis her guns played a great part in the island's defense.

The King's visit was a great triumph for the island's defense. The King's visit was a great triumph for the island's defense.

It is doubtful if any people elsewhere in the world could be so impressed by a visit from the King. It was on this island and it has been a thorough triumph. Composition of the new plastic is a military secret.

Other units of the Royal Canadian Air Force were represented by representatives in the form of overseas pool from which fighters would be drawn when the invasion came.

Side by side with their Canadian allies were a large number of British troops, including Polish and Polish fighting men.

Top-ranking officers in the movement of the brigades of F. Preston of Victoria and G. Francon of Montreal, who were proceeding over the Atlantic from the Atlantic, were seen in the Atlantic.

Indian Is Jailed For Three Months On Liquor Charge

VICTORIA, June 22.—(CP)—Moses Isaac Tenos, Indian of the Shupwag reserve near Inverness, yesterday was sentenced to three months' imprisonment on a charge of possession of liquor on an Indian reserve.

Tenos was arrested following the deaths of two Indian natives, Mrs. Joe Rogers, 26, and Miss Stevens, 28, in a fire that destroyed a shack on the reserve last Friday. Police said the trio held a party in the home prior to the blaze.

Communist Party Post-War Housing Meetings Banned

OTTAWA, June 22.—(CP)—Justice Minister St. Laurent yesterday told the house of commons that in view of the existing ban on the Communist party in Canada no convention of that party would be permitted to be held.

Answering a question by Lacombe (Con. Val.-Two Mountains) who had asked the minister if a convention of the Communist party scheduled for August 21 and 22 would be allowed to be held in the department, Mr. St. Laurent said that under the present defense of Canada regulations the Communist party was still banned.

"The minister of justice cannot allow the holding of any convention of the Communist party," he said.

"However, if those who belonged to the Communist party wish to form a new political group which is not an advocate of violence, it is up to them to do so," he said.

No Crime "To Look" At Pretty Women

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP)—In the case of a 30-year-old woman arrested for staring at men, the judge observed: "Looking at women, especially if they are good looking, is no crime. I still do it myself. The youth should be guilty to stare at the door and court suspended sentence."

Leaders
BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

The preparation for the election is supposed to have been a last-minute affair. The Prime Minister has been saving his energies for the primary party in which he became acutely involved in and out of the government to side up the attitude of the party towards post-war questions.

The election was highly successful, and a large number of important people spoke frankly with him, and he got an insight into attitudes and feelings which he has not when he is an aristocratic, Conservative of fairly high social and intellectual position.

The decade from the foreign minister Eden is seen behind some of this, because the conversion of his mind to the new situation was a great power to work together for the war. It must be clear to him that the new situation was the first effort of the defeated nations will be, as last time, to split the victors and play one against the other.

GREECE AND ALBANIA

These two countries shall be dealt with simultaneously, as any operations in the Balkans should include both territories.

(a) The reconquest of northern Greece would provide greater advantages and more important objectives than invasion of any of the other countries mentioned in this group. The aim would be to gain a front against Bulgaria and from there against Rumania, with the ultimate objective of reaching the rear of the German Army in southern Russia and cutting Rumanian oil and wheat supplies that Germany could not otherwise replace. The distance from the Greek and Albanian west coasts to the Bulgarian border and to Salonika is less than two hundred miles, about twice the width of northern Tunisia or the Italian Peninsula. The reaching of the final objective, occupation of Macedonia, Thrace, Bulgaria, and the southeastern part of Rumania, would be a decisive step toward final victory.

(b) Geopolitical conditions, however, are not very favorable. The country of Greece, like Norway, has a mountainous coastline with innumerable gulfs, islands, and peninsulas. As in Norway, this coast is not only a main barrier, but also a main vulnerability. The main valleys, which are the main arteries of the country, are not only difficult to reach, but also difficult to defend. Mart Kenney's Orchestra Plays For 3,500 Service Men at Arena

Thirty-five hundred men and women thronged Edmonton's arena Monday afternoon and made the rafters quiver as they gave Mart Kenney and his band a rousing ovation. The band played for three hours, and the audience made a rush for the refreshment bar.

Also attending the show, besides the men of the R.C.A.F., were ladies in civilian blue who turned out in large numbers to hear the band. The men of the R.C.N.V.R. soldiers of Canada and the United States, and women of the three services. Several local orchestra leaders were among the civilian.

Among the numbers which started the greatest roar of enthusiasm from the crowd were: "I Stood Up Over Again," "Johnny Zerk," "Mama," "I'll Be True to You," "Lady Be Good," and "Don't Get Around Much Anymore."

Fear "Apprentice" Farm Plan Failure

CALGARY, June 22.—(CP)—The farm apprenticeship plan for high school boys is in danger of proving a failure, insofar as the Calgary district is concerned, due to the lack of interest on part of the farmers. A total of 150 Calgary high school boys have indicated their willingness to accept farm jobs, but the number of farmers willing to take care of only a fraction of that number, said J. J. Smith, acting manager of the National Selective Service office, here yesterday. Students of city grades 10 and 11 started their long summer holidays yesterday, and during the next few days grades called at the Selective Service and employment office during the day, working boys. Forty of them were given permits to call on employers who had listed openings with the placement bureau. The boys, who have indicated a willingness to accept farm work, will be placed in other jobs unless more farmers list their wants before the end of this week, said Mr. Smith.

Council President Of Mormon Church Passes in States

SALT LAKE CITY, June 22.—(AP)—Nedger Clawson, 86, president of the Council of the Twelve Apostles of the Latter Day Saints (Mormon) church, who once as a church missionary faced the guns of a hostile mob, died yesterday. Elder Clawson, under church procedure, was named successor to President Heber J. Grant, who has been in ill health for several months. As a 22-year-old missionary in Georgia in 1878, Clawson saw his fellow churchman, Joseph Standing, shot and killed by members of a mob. Clawson said later he believed he, too, would be shot. Moscow States All Depends on Allies' Moves

LONDON, June 22.—(CP)—The Moscow radio in a special anniversary announcement said today that in the Russian-German war "everything now depends on how the Allies will use the favorable situation for a second front, without which victory is impossible." Marking the second anniversary of the German invasion of Russia, the Soviet announcement, reviewing the way to date, said the balance of forces had improved recently to the benefit of "us and our allies."

"But this is not enough for victory," the announcement continued. Lack of a second front "foiled victory in 1942," the announcement said. "Then Hitler utilized the absence of a second front. To be late now means that our common cause will seriously suffer."

"On the other hand," a second front this year in Europe will speed victory and save many victims."

(Hump) Madden, R.C.A.F., who acted as navigator. "I don't speak Russian but Capt. Panomarenko and I developed a little sign language to communicate with each other," said Sgt. Ldr. Madden. "I had no trouble."

"No cause, no country, can be great unless its women work for it"

Madame Chiang Kai-shek

The women of China have risen to the challenge. Leaving their traditional place in the home, they are working and fighting to defend those homes, side by side with their men.

Canadian women have the same duty. They are not being asked to man the guns, but there are thousands of jobs just as essential which they can—and should be doing behind the lines.

The fighting men of Canada expect—and have a right to expect—that Canadian women will be just as ready to give up their comfortable way of life for the sterner duties of war.

You don't require special qualifications to enlist in Canada's Armed Forces. If you are between the ages of 18 and 45 (50 in some cases) and are in good health, there's a place waiting for you. Go to any Recruiting Centre and talk it over.

Women Won't Talk

By RENE RYERSON MART

CHAPTER XIII

DEREK's funeral was held at the village undertaker's. We went in two cars. Margaret and Will Grady and his wife in the limousine driven by the faithful John. Walter and Kathy and I in the roadster. Walter driving. Connie pleaded off with a sick headache and went to bed instead.

The services were short.

Margaret didn't cry at all. She went up to the grave on Willis arm and stood looking down at the closed casket a long time, and then she turned blindly away.

A county car was parked in the drive when we returned home, and I saw some deputies down in the ravine. They seemed to be searching for something.

Walter went upstairs immediately to see how Connie was. Kathy, Margaret, Will and his wife also disappeared upstairs, and I went into my study to wait impatiently until the noisy police should leave. I had something to do and not much time to do it in for next time to save my immortal soul would I have gone into the woods again after dark.

The police poked around down in the ravine and on the side lawn for a long time. I watched them from the study windows. At last it dawned on me that they were looking for the gun—the gun that had killed Derek. The fine hair lifted along the back of my neck. If they found the gun there would probably be fingerprints on it. And Shaw had had all of us fingerprinted as a matter of routine.

It was nearly dinner time before the officers gave up their search. The spooniness of the night before was gone as I crossed the creek and hurried along the family road path toward the Cottage. The sun was still a couple of hours high in the sky.

I stopped to reconnoitre when I reached the place where I had buried my ankle. Yes, there was a twisted tree root showing in the centre of the path. That was evidently what I had stumbled on in the dark.

I pushed my way determinedly through the bushes and made narrow circles around the place, but I didn't see anything to account for the light that had been there last night. It looked as if my curiosity was wasted, and then just as I turned reluctantly to go back to the path my eye was caught by a metallic gleam where one of the long shafts of sunlight pierced a thick clump of the berry briars.

I walked over to the bushes and there was a spade stuck down in them for concealment. My blood pressure mounted. I pulled the spade out, getting my hand mangled in the process, and looked the ground over again.

I saw a place close to the fallen tree trunk that looked as if the lead mold had been recently loosened. The way I dug would have been a revelation to a W.P.A. man, and suddenly a small brown packet came flying out with the dirt.

It was a man's wallet. There was worn lettering on the flap, "D. G." and inside a thick shroud of fresh uncreased bills, the kind the bank gives you. I took the money out the mouth. It was in bills of $10 and $20, $500 in all.

Something was still lodged in a corner of the wallet. I shook it. A diamond ring came tumbling into my lap. A big square diamond in a platinum setting that insouciantly caught the sunlight and flashed it back in streaks of fire. I picked it up with clumsy fingers.

It was Kathy's diamond! It was true, then, what I had guessed last night. I reflected as I unscrewed the pin at the neck of my black sheer dress and slipped the ring down in my bosom next to my skin.

I had known that the note Shaw had found in Connie's room, and which led to her mistaken confession, had been sent to Kathy instead of Connie. The discovery I had made as I thought the situation over, "Derek had written 'I'm in the old play cave.' That would have meaning only to Kathy. It was Kathy who had played there with him. Connie would know nothing about it. Then I had spent the rest of the night wondering when and how Connie had come into possession of the note. If Connie had intercepted the note before it reached Kathy, there was the probability that Kathy knew nothing about Derek hiding in the ravine. But I knew now that that was out. Kathy had seen Derek. She had given him the money and her

As to why somebody had buried the body there, I couldn't guess. There was no sign of a struggle. Derek's body and hidden in the bushes, he hadn't the foggiest notion.

Aside from that mysterious angle, the fact as I know now could reasonably guess them began to fall into a logical sequence of events. Connie had learned something about the note from Derek, and she had decided to see him herself and send him away before he could cause another family scandal. That explained the bitter quarrel between the girls.

And now I could guess, too, where Kathy had been going that morning—the morning of the day we found Derek when she was almost run over by Clint Mattison and me in the lower hall. She had been on her way to the bank to get this money for Derek's funeral. Shaw must know it too. That was why she had asked her repeatedly if she had stopped any place in the village and when she denied it.

The chief deputy was no fool. He could put two and two together, and there was every chance in the world that he would add it up to four.

Well, I couldn't do anything about that, but I could call Clint Mattison off.
